

Expiration Dates of the National Health Insurance Card

Foreign Residents may check expiration dates of the National Health Insurance Card issued after October 1, 2019 with the table below.

The Expiration Date of Your Period of Stay	Expires on
After October 1, 2021 which is the next insurance renewal date	September 30, 2021
Before September 30, 2021	The following day of your period of stay expires

(NOTE)

- The expiration date of each household member may differ depending on one's period of stay.
- Register any changes or extensions on your status of residence anytime after the following day on which the changes have been granted. Make sure to have new Residence Card with you.
- When you apply for the extension of your period of stay before its expiration date, have your legal document that proves your application and apply for the extension of the Insurance as well. It will be extended for 2 months after the original expiration date of the period of stay.
- If you would like to continue the membership of the National Health Insurance after your resident registry has been removed due to changes in your resident status, register the changes at Insurance and Pension Section of Hachioji City Office. Make sure to bring your passport with you. Persons whose resident status have been terminated will lose the membership.

*Householder's and policyholder's "My Number (Individual Number)" are required for the application.
